

November 20, 2006

Dear Dr. Liu:

The revisions (of the revisions Sherry sent to you) are not satisfactory because they do not fairly or accurately represent the information that is presented in Table 4. It is true that you have significant differences, but the arithmetic differences are small and may be a minor practical value. It is important that you describe the results accurately and that you disclose results that may not be what you predicted or preferred.

Please provide a fresh version of the training efficacy in the training group results that considers the approach presented above.

Sincerely,

Mickey Dougherty, PhD, RN
Editor, Nursing Research