Dear Sherry,

I am so happy receiving your email that tell me you did not receive my email in the middle of May.

In your previous letter (please see the attachment), you mention two questions:
(1) Regarding table 2, I do not think it need to change/modify because it is not verbatim. The Heo's article, published in Nursing Research, 54(4), discussed the pshychometric properties in the MLHFQ. In their article, Table 3 also used key words represent the original sentence.

(2) All co-author agree to post the original manuscript on the Nursing Research Editor's Web site as an example. Thank you for your encourage when I first submitting.

Thank you again.
